

City targeting food security

The One Home One Garden program and the Agri-hubs involve transfer of agro ecology techniques and skills for households to create low cost and low-tech sustainable food gardens using various growing mediums such as tyres, containers, pellets, vertical towers etc. to supplement household food baskets, consume nutritious foods, improve household food security and generate income from selling excess produce to their neighbours. The Agro Ecology Unit consists of 6 production hubs across the city i.e., Northdene (Head office – central), Marrianrighe (Central), Inchanga (West), Umbumbulu (South), Newlands (North) and Hambanathi Agri Hub (Far north). These are used for training, skills and knowledge transfer and are accessible to communities across the city.

This project contributes to achieving the following Sustainable Development Goals:

The 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development, adopted by all United Nations Member States in 2015, provides a shared blueprint for peace and prosperity for people and the planet, now and into the future. At its heart are the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs), which are an urgent call for action by all countries - developed and developing - in a global partnership. They recognize that ending poverty and other deprivations must go hand-in-hand with strategies that improve health and education, reduce inequality, and spur economic growth – all while tackling climate change and working to preserve our oceans and forests.

SDG 1 aims at ending poverty in all its forms everywhere; SDG 2 seeks sustainable solutions to end hunger in all its forms by 2030 and to achieve food security. The aim is to ensure that everyone everywhere has enough good-quality food to lead a healthy life. SDG 11 targets making cities and human settlements inclusive, safe, resilient and sustainable; and SDG 17 seeks to strengthen global partnerships to support and achieve the ambitious targets of the 2030 Agenda, bringing together national governments, the international community, civil society, the private sector and other actors.
